THE Daily Bulletin

Pledged to neither Sect nor Party,
But established for the benefit of all.

FRIDAY, AUG. 9, 1889.

The North American Salt Company has filed articles of incorporation under the laws of New York, with a capital of eleven million dollars. This is a trust that should find it hard to "salt" the public, when the latter have two oceans to go to for a supply of the article.

Arthur J. McQuade, the New York alderman convicted of bribery in 1885 and who was for months confined in Sing Sing, having procured a new trial and the venue changed to Ballston, has just been acquitted by a jury at the latter place. This is the first acquittal in the famous boodle cases, and shows that the way of the public prosecutor, when he pursues prominent transgressors, is hard in New York.

Idaho's constitutional convention rejected the propositions for a secret ballot and an educational franchise. The convention was what would be called "missionary" in Honolulu, as one Prefey was severely sat upon when he proposed to prevent the payment of funds to religious institutions or for chaplains of legislatures, classing religious services as "coming down from barbarous times." The same member made a futile attempt to have struck out of the preamble the words, "grateful to Almighty God."

There is an impression abroad that the British cruiser Espiegle, that left here lately under sealed orders, has gone to annex Tonga, or the Friendly Islands, to the Empire. The fact that news was recently received of the death of the Heir Apparent of Tonga, King George being very old, lends color to the surmise. Any objection to the theory on the ground that Tonga is within the jurisdiction of the Australian naval station, may be answered by recalling the fact that the Hyacinth received orders while stationed here from the Admiralty to annex the Cook group which she did last year.

Japan has been making herself well-known for some time through the policy of employing foreign instructors in the arts of both peace and war, and sending promising young men abroad for special education. It is strange, however, to hear of one English-speaking country applying to the Government of another for a special instructor. Last year the Queensland, Australia, Government applied to the United States Department of Agriculture for the nomination of a suitable person to be appointed as instructor in agriculture. Secretary Rusk has just nominated Prof. Edward M. Shelton of Manhattan, Kansas, to serve the Queensland Government in that capacity.

NEW ZEALAND FINANCES.

The comparatively new Government of New Zealand has made a pretty fair start in the policy of economy and retrenchment. Last year's revenue was £4,058,084, and there was a surplus of £77,769. At least £32,000 had been paid from ordinary revenue for purposes hitherto provided for by loan, besides £50,000 of debt cleared off. The estimated ordinary expenditure this year is £4,117,331, of which the large sum of £1,613,205 is for interest. The Auckland Herald says the financial statement made to the Legislature made by the Premier, Sir H. Atkinson, "has been well received, and it will substantially pass unchallenged." Sir Julius Vogel's party had their own way so long in New Zealand that they would acknowledge no ability in the victorious Opposition to conduct affairs. Events have proved, however, as often has happened in other countries, that no set of statesmen, however brilliant or experienced, can afford to say, "Surely we are the people and wisdom will die with us."

MORE ORGAN GRINDING.

The Advertiser writers ought to read articles in other papers before writing about them. The BULLETIN never said that "the present Cabinet is certain to be overturned at the coming election." Quote the passage referred to in full, and an entirely different meaning will be evident. As there is no hope of the Advertiser correcting its own misrepresentations, we here repeat the words upon which it has made its misstatement: "The Reform Government, judging by long current talk—not only among its outspoken opponents from the start but among many who believed in the original Reform Party's policy, only considering that has not been faithfully carried out—was certain of being upset at the near approaching general election. Indeed, with a good alternative Cabinet to propose, a platform wisely drawn, and reputable standard-bearers on the part of the Opposition, it would have been an uncommon triumph of constitutional politics if the Ministry should survive the general elections."

Now, anybody with an ounce of brains would have perceived that the whole article bore upon the overt action of an extreme faction of the Opposition. Their outbreak was therefore viewed from the standpoint of themselves and of the loyal sections of their party. The certainty of the Government's defeat at the polls was premised upon the reliance to be placed upon "long current talk" in circles dissatisfied with and opposed to the Ministry. Has the Advertiser the hardihood to say that scores of those who helped to create the Reform Party, as well as those who have always been its inveterate enemies, have not openly declared their belief—in a way to show the wish father to the thought—that 1890 would wind up the career of the present Ministry? The assertion quoted above, that, with the conditions stated, it would be an "uncommon triumph of constitutional politics" if the Ministry survived the election, cannot be gained. The popular disposition to desire a change, added to the unsatisfied hopes of many previous followers, has to be overcome by constitutional Ministries in every country. Moreover, the second sentence quoted above shows that the previous one only cited other people's opinions. It was not said or implied that the conditions mentioned were at all likely to be fulfilled by the Opposition if it was to be led by such men as Wilcox, Bush, Poeppoe, et al. And those conditions, let us tell the hide-bound and mercenary Advertiser, are the only ones under which the BULLETIN would be reconciled to a change of administration—namely, that those who would cut short the tenure of the present Ministry should have "a good alternative Cabinet to propose, a platform wisely drawn and reputable standard-bearers."

At the same time, we hope the Government will be able to assure the electorate of its intention and ability to do better in the future than in some respects it has done in the past. There have been faults and shortcomings for which it has been severely criticised by many of the best friends of reform and not merely by reactionists as the Advertiser suggests. Indeed, the Government has of late altered its policy in a certain matter, to meet views of the BULLETIN which had been attacked by the Advertiser. This is an illustration of the effete condition to which party hack journalism has arrived. It is to be hoped the Ministry will rely upon its own good purposes, assisted by the considerable experience now had by most of its members, and not lay too much stress upon the advantage that may accrue to it from the monstrous blunder of the rabid faction of the Opposition. If the Cabinet can justify its record and present an acceptable policy it should stand. It would under those conditions require a strong combination in capacity and character to upset it, provided the issue be decided upon questions of reasonable politics. In any event, the BULLETIN will still refuse to be a party hack, but judge any administration solely by its performances.

THE TRUST AND THE MARKET.

The extract from the Commercial News given in yesterday's issue showed a belief in New York that the trust was storing sugar to corner the market. This idea is repeated in a New York despatch of July 19 as the opinion then prevailing on the Stock Exchange, but the following interesting paragraphs are added:

On the other hand, Wall-street sugar brokers hold that the trust has stored sugar because there is no market for it. Prices have struck bottom, and the refiners can realize no profit on their manufactures. It has been suggested that possibly the sugar has been accumulated to undermine Claus Spreckels when he got his Philadelphia beet product refinery in operation; but the intention to swamp the market with sugar at a low price as soon as Spreckels turned out his first cargo.

In answer to this theory a member of one of the most prominent sugar concerns on Wall street, but with no affiliations with the trust, said to-day: "Whatever the object of storing this sugar is, it is almost certain that Spreckels has a hand in it. His alleged enmity to the trust is all moonshine. No one on the inside supposes for an instant that he is going to fight a corporation of $50,000,000. He is with the trust hand and glove. He is too smart a business man to fight against it."

CLOSING EXERCISES OF HONOLULU GOVERNMENT SCHOOL.

The closing exercises of the Honolulu school, numbering one hundred and twenty-six pupils, with Mrs. R. M. Overend, principal, Messrs. Edwards and Estep, assistants, were held on Wednesday and Thursday, July 25th and 26th.

The programme of the primary department, consisting of regular class room work, was excellently carried out, the young pupils of Mr. Edwards and Mr. Estep acquitting themselves very well.

The public examination and exhibition of the principal's classes reflected credit on both teacher and pupils. That careful English work has been done was evident from the ready answers given in complete sentences.

The singing and rhetorical exercises were good, the latter deserving especial mention. A spirited display of blackboard writing resulted in the award of previously offered prizes to David Lyman and Julia Mokuola.

Handsome prizes offered by the principal for high class standing, were given to Eugene Lyman, Jacob Brown, Maria, Mary Keali, and Sarah Lyman.

The school room was tastefully decorated with ferns and flowers. A good many of the parents and friends of the pupils attended the examination, no Portuguese, however, being present, although over half the children are of that nationality.

The Boston Advertiser calls New York "the city of uncorrected monuments."

Port Huron has a tough whose forehead is so low that when he weeps the tears run down his back.

"What's the name of your stylographic pen?" "The Anarchist. It's a very appropriate name, too."

"Why?" "Because it won't work more than one day in a month."

HONOLULU, H. I.

These Schools open for the New Year

September 9, 1889.

The faculty of Oahu College will be the same as last year. The Friend says: "We think that there has never been an abler faculty at Oahu College, or one better adapted to impart a high classical and scientific education."

The Preparatory School continues under the Principals of Miss Malone; Miss Carrie A. Gilman takes Miss Chamberlain's position, the latter having resigned to remove to the United States.

The Trustees are happy to announce that, through the generous interest of a friend, they are erecting a fine new building and remodeling the present one, so that this school will occupy new and commodious quarters in September. When thus equipped we believe the Preparatory School will offer opportunities second to none in the kingdom.

Is This Plain Enough For The Investors?

Some Suggestive Facts and Figures Showing the Financial Operations of the Two Largest Life Insurance Companies in the World.

(From the Annual Statements for 1888, and the Official Reports to the Insurance Department.)
To the Thoughtful Investor:

Considering the vast importance involved in connection with Life Insurance, and the natural inference to be taken from a reading of the many pamphlets, circulars, and advertisements of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, claiming superiority over every other company, and alluding particularly to "Its Two Largest Competitors," as a representative of one of the "Two Largest Competitors" I offer no apology for presenting a comparative exhibit, showing the financial operations of the Mutual and Equitable Life Ins. Cos., and have aimed to make the comparisons plain even to "LET EVERY EYE NEGOTIATE FOR ITSELF."

Respectfully submitted,
A. D. THOMAS,
Executive Special Agent, the Mutual Life Ins. Co.

An Ounce of Fact Is Worth a Ton of Assertion.

- As to admitted assets Jan. 1st, 1889:
The Mutual Life held $125,491,719 } Excess in favor of Mutual Life, $32,182,390.
The Equitable held 93,312,329 }
- As to the amount of assets to assumed Insurance Obligations:
The Mutual Life held $262 per each one thousand } Excess in favor of Mutual Life $89.00 per $1000.
The Equitable held $173 per each one thousand }
- As to amount of insurance issued in 1888 over 1887:
The Mutual Life gained $33,756,793 } Excess in favor of Mutual Life $17,846,363.
The Equitable gained 15,910,430 }
The percentage of gain in the Mutual was 48.6 } Excess in favor of Mutual 37 per cent.
The percentage of gain in the Equitable was 11.6 }
- As to Premiums received from, and claims paid to policy holders:
The Mutual Life paid $75.70 for each $100 } Excess in favor of Mutual Life $22.00 per every $100.
The Equitable paid $53.70 for each $100 }
- As to general 4 percent Surplus over all Tontine and ascertained dividend liability:
The Mutual Life held Jan. 1st, 1889, $7,887,639 } Excess in favor of Mutual $2,632,220.
The Equitable held Jan. 1st, 1889, $5,255,419 }

The Equitable boasts itself advertises a surplus of $20,794,715 while their own sworn statement, as shown in the latest report of the New York Ins. Dept., proves the advertisement "padded" to the extent of $1,726,312. The Equitable's GROSS surplus is only $19,068,402 and from this amount should be deducted the sum of $13,812,983 already accrued on Tontine and other policies for which special class of policy holders it is simply held in trust and cannot be used in any manner for the protection or profit of any new member. If the $100,000 of capital stock be also deducted the Equitable's general surplus is shown to be $5,155,419.

Interests, Expenses, Dividends and Total Payments to Policy Holders.

From 1863 to 1889 the interest receipts of The Mutual Life was more than sufficient to pay all death losses by over nine millions of dollars, while during the same period of years the interest receipts of the Equitable was not enough to pay its death claims by twelve millions of dollars. The total outgo for both death claims and expenses in the same period being seven percent greater in the Equitable than in the Mutual Life. The dividends paid by the Mutual Life, in the last 21 years alone, amount to $73,514,374 as against $33,598,916 paid by the Equitable. While the total payments to policy holders since the Company's organization have been: in the Mutual Life $272,481,339. In the Equitable $118,494,751. The Mutual Life has paid back to its members in cash and holds securely invested for future payment, Over Sixty Millions of Dollars More than ever received from them, while the Equitable has returned in like manner LESS than five millions. 317 4t
